Peery's A Busy Man

Mass. Governor In Virginia Today; Peery Keeps Busy With Engagements

Social functions, combined with official duties, are laying heavy hands upon the time of Virginia's chief executive, governor George C. Peery who, without doubt, is easily among the busiest men in the entire commonwealth.

On Thursday last it became the pleasant duty of governor Peery to officially receive his brother executives, governor Louis J. Brann, of Maine, who passed through Richmond on a goodwill tour carrying him through many Southern states.

Monday of this week, the governor entertained at the executive mansion ambassador Hiroi Saito, of Japan, who that afternoon and evening delivered addresses in Richmond.

Yesterday, governor and Mrs. Peery held a reception at the mansion in honor of the Daughters of the American Colonists.

This evening, governor and Mrs. James M. Curley, of Massachusetts, will be guests of Virginia's governor and his wife. Tomorrow, the northern executive and party will accompany Virginia's governor and party on a pilgrimage to Cape Henry.

On May 2, the governor will attend the celebration of the battle of Chancellorsville.

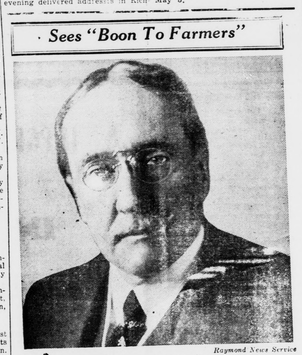
May 20 will have the governor visiting the several Virginia state parks.

On June 13—15, governor Peery will attend the Governor's Conference at Biloxi, Miss.

And that's but a partial list of executive engagements.

County school May Day here on May 3.

Sees "Boon To Farmers"



Raymond News Service

FORMER Ambassador James W. Gerard today praised the Farm Credit Administration for suggesting recently that crop loan borrowers buy American-made supplies. The noted diplomat, whose interest in America has been the very driving force of his private and public life said: "This will mean increased activity in American industries so vital to the welfare and prosperity of the American people, particularly producers of nitrate of soda and sulphate of ammonia. Such activity in turn will increase the home market for farm products. Many farmers, whether or not they are Crop Loan borrowers, will act wisely if accordingly act in their own and the country's interest by purchasing American goods."

Program At H. School

New Shrubs and Trees Planted By Local High School Pupils

Appomattox grade pupils never grow weary of paying tribute to the pioneers, who in the midst of a wilderness laid the foundation of our nation. They believe in conservation of natural resources and plant life as well as animal life.

Their spirit of preservation and beautification was manifest in the program given by him and their teachers here on April 11 in the auditorium at the school. The following program was presented:

What conservation means: Miss Kelly.

Governor Peery's proclamation, by Lula Hall.

Bible reading, relating to trees, by Miss Williams.

Prayer: Charles T. Moses.

Song: "Trees" by sixth and seventh grade pupils.

Poem, Frances Gunter.

Poem, Walter Jamerson.

Bird Return, Ellen Kennedy, Dorothy Cawthorn, Betty Anne Holt.

Bird acrostic, by 26 pupils from grades 2, 3 and 4.

Posters in keeping with the day were on exhibition. The junior league offered a prize for the best poster, and this went to the seventh grade pupils in Miss Williams' room.

Immediately after the program, the pupils and teachers participated in tree, shrub and perennial planting. One hundred and twenty dogwood and lilacs were planted along the highway on the school grounds. Appomattox high school is now looking forward to the time when the triangle lot on which the buildings are located will be bordered with sweet scented blooming lilacs white and pink dogwood beneath which may be seen the trailing rambler roses sending their contributions of rose, white, yellow and red colors amid green foliage.

the SNAPSHOT GUILD

Don't Overlook the Importance Of Birthday Pictures

Don't delay taking the new baby's picture and then watch him grow through monthly snapshots thereafter.

IN these modern times the father is lucky if he is permitted to see his newly-born heir for several days after Sir Stork has delivered his package, unless it is through the heavy glass of a well guarded window or door in the hospital. After a few days, however, when nurses and doctors decide he is not a common carrier of germs that might attack the baby and retard its growth, he should by all means exercise his authority as a father and demand permission to "shoot" the baby—with a camera, of course.

Every month is usually considered a birthday in a baby's life until he is a year old. Thereafter, regular yearly birthdays are in order. At least a picture a month should be made of the new boarder and after the first twelve months you had better keep your camera loaded with film at all times for you can never tell when your baby is going to take his first cautious, faltering step—and what an event in your life—not his, it apparently means nothing to the baby. He simply steps out in a matter-of-fact, but careful manner, and you get all excited, let out a couple of whoops, gasp, laugh and scare the infant so thoroughly that he falls down and has to do it all over again.

The chances are that you will not be prepared for that first step, or if you would happen to be holding the camera in your hand you may, in your excitement, even turn it in the wrong direction and get an out-of-focus picture of your own mid-section. But don't miss this moment of moments the next time. Have your camera and yourself ready for action.

There never seems to be enough of those baby pictures to go around for there are grandmothers, aunts, cousins and friends in distant cities who are always looking forward to receiving a snapshot of the newly arrived commander of the "fighting try."

Before you can realize where the days, months and years have gone your child is starting to school. The baby has grown up and before you have a chance to wonder how and will "turn out" you are wondering what time he will come home to "turn in."

There's always the "first time" for everything and this applies to thousands of events in a baby's life. There is the first time he throws his bib, has toes, and immediately decides in his own little mind that they are something good to eat. His first smile, and then that great moment when he reaches out with his chubby little arms and says, "Blah," which is at once interpreted by the parents to mean "Daddie," or "Mommie," sometimes depending on who is governor of the household.

So make this "Baby Picture Forgetfulness Week" and send your camera ready for action. You don't have to wait "until you see the whites of their eyes," as Col. William Prescott commanded at The Battle of Bunker Hill, but "shoot" the minute they perform one of their fascinating little baby "tricks."
